

Applications Open Margolis Scholars Program Deadline March 17, 2024

The Duke-Margolis Center for Health Policy is officially accepting applications from rising 3rd-Year Duke School of Medicine students for the Margolis Scholars Program

The Margolis Scholars program is a prestigious program for Duke University students that demonstrate a strong interest in and commitment to a career in health policy and management, as well as leadership potential to improve health policy. The program provides promising medical students with the necessary knowledge, skills, and abilities to be the next generation of health care leaders. Selected Margolis Scholars in Medicine are engaged in the program for 1 year and receive professional development funding.

Interested rising 3rd year medical student applicants will need to fill out the online application, including submission of a current CV, personal statement, research proposal, and mentor information, and respond to short-answer questions. Eligible applicants' research proposal must focus on a topic at the intersection of clinical medicine and health policy. Find more information about the program on our Margolis Scholars page. Interested students can apply here.

The Duke Medical student Margolis Scholars application is open until March 17.

Interviews for medical candidates will take place from March 27 through March 31. Selected candidates for the program will be notified late April, and the program will begin in August 2023. Please note that programming for all Margolis Scholars will be scheduled each Friday from 12:00-1:30 PM.

Learn more from the Margolis Scholars fact sheet or by contacting Kate Bundorf, Duke-Margolis Director of the Margolis Scholars Program, kate.bundorf@duke.edu, or Tiffany Chan, Margolis Scholars Program Coordinator, tiffany.chan@duke.edu.